January Newsletter

Happy New Year! We had a busy end to last year, the library was festooned with Christmas decorations the students had made, we even had our own snowman made out of books. It has been really encouraging to see the increase in the number of books being borrowed, hopefully this continues. A big thank you to the student librarians who have been working really hard and are an asset to the library.

New Books

The library received a wonderful donation of new books from David Fickling Publishers. This was arranged by Mrs Goldsmith, owner of the Pickled Ink Illustration Agency. Thank you both for your support and generosity.

Library Themes

December was disability month. We purchased some story books, which had themes of physical and mental disability. Two of our librarians, Kavindi and Jessie, have made a display board, to continue raising awareness and advocating inclusion. Well done girls, great idea!

Magazines

We now have a large selection of magazines in the library. Cilla & Camilla have very kindly agreed to sponsor the Beano and Mrs Goldsmith has introduced us to a great magazine called 'The Phoenix', which she has offered to sponsor. We are very grateful to them both.

Student Librarians

Our student librarians have all settled into their new roles. They all bring different talents, ideas and skills to the library. Some students are redesigning the display boards, 2 students have ordered new books for the Sci-Fi section as they felt the books were outdated, whilst others are enjoying issuing and returning the books at the desk.

Hopefully they are all enjoying being a part of the library and we look forward to presenting you with your student librarian badges.

Thank you for all your hard work.
